1. Introduction

2. Methodology

The study was conducted in a laboratory setting. The participants were recruited from a local university and were screened for any conditions that might affect their performance. The experiment was divided into two main phases: a familiarization phase and a testing phase. During the familiarization phase, participants were introduced to the equipment and the tasks they would be performing. The testing phase consisted of several trials, each with a specific protocol. The data collected during these trials were analyzed using statistical methods to determine the significance of the results. The findings of the study are discussed in detail in the following sections.
