

The diagram shows a vertical shaft system. At the top, there is a horizontal shaft with a grey arrow pointing to the right. A grey rectangular block is positioned to the right of the main shaft, with a blue arrow pointing from it towards the main shaft. Below the main shaft, there is a grey rectangular block with a blue arrow pointing upwards towards the main shaft. At the very bottom, there is another horizontal shaft with a grey arrow pointing to the right.