

Figure 1

The diagram shows a rectangular structure with a central vertical channel. The top part of the structure is divided into two sections, labeled 'A' and 'B', by a vertical line. The central channel is labeled 'C'. The bottom part of the structure is labeled 'D'. The diagram shows various internal components and connections within each section.

The diagram shows a rectangular structure with a central vertical channel. The top part of the structure is divided into two sections, labeled 'A' and 'B', by a vertical line. The central channel is labeled 'C'. The bottom part of the structure is labeled 'D'. The diagram shows various internal components and connections within each section.

The diagram shows a rectangular structure with a central vertical channel. The top part of the structure is divided into two sections, labeled 'A' and 'B', by a vertical line. The central channel is labeled 'C'. The bottom part of the structure is labeled 'D'. The diagram shows various internal components and connections within each section.