

The diagram shows the relationship between the system and its subsystem. The system is composed of several subsystems, which are further divided into smaller components.

The diagram illustrates the flow of information or data between the system and its subsystem. The system sends data to the subsystem, and the subsystem sends data back to the system.

The diagram shows the relationship between the system and its subsystem. The system is composed of several subsystems, which are further divided into smaller components.

The diagram illustrates the flow of information or data between the system and its subsystem. The system sends data to the subsystem, and the subsystem sends data back to the system.

The diagram shows the relationship between the system and its subsystem. The system is composed of several subsystems, which are further divided into smaller components.

The diagram illustrates the flow of information or data between the system and its subsystem. The system sends data to the subsystem, and the subsystem sends data back to the system.